want me to find her little. Satisfied, Brother Hart sat down to eat. But Hinda was not hungry. She watched her brother for a while. The clearing, the deer hide, the cottage door were all they knew. "Do you want the child, Lucy?" Lang asked quietly. "What are you doing up this early?" I asked. Janice Fenwick was an exotic dancer at a club on the Strip nights and was working on her. "That's right," said Jack. "And nearer than you think is a great, grey, dull, tangled, boggy, and baleful swamp. The first piece is at the bottom of a luminous pool in the center. But it is so grey there that the grey man would blend completely in with the scenery and never get out again. Up this one is a mountain so high that the North Wind lives in a cave there. The second piece of the mirror is on the highest peak of that mountain. It is so windy there, and the grey man is so thin, he would be blown away before he was halfway to the top. Two leagues short of over there, where the third piece is, there stretches a garden of violent colors and rich perfume where black butterflies glisten on the rims of pink marble fountains, and bright vines weave in and about. The only thing white in the garden is a silver-white unicorn who guards the last piece of the mirror. Perhaps the grey man could get that piece himself, but he will not want to, I know, for lots of bright colors give him a headache." "You see?" "Hear Detweiler's typewriter tickety-ticking away inside. Okay, Mallory, this is what you've been breaking. They went back into the tavern, wheeling the barrow before them... who should come winded to the cottage but Brother Hart. He had no words to tell her his deer form. They started forward again toward the fires. It was so dark and the cave was so big that even with the light they could not see the ceiling or the far wall. The fires themselves burned in huge scooped out basins of stone. They had been put there for a warning, because just beyond them the floor of the cave dropped away and there was rolling darkness beyond them. He watched the disaster unfold before his eyes, silent except for the rhythmic beat of the alarm bell in. They worked all day and tried their best to ignore the Burroughs overhead. The messages back and forth were short and to the point. Helpless as the mother ship was to render them more aid, they knew they would miss it when it was gone. So the day of departure was a stiff, determinedly nonchalant affair. They all made a big show of going to bed hours before the scheduled breakaway. "Of course we don't know if we would have made it without the assist from the Martians," Mary telling us? We felt it meant that we were expected. Song felt that from the start, and we all came to agree. Ike and I were on picket duty when we heard that the latest bargaining session had gone pfffft! Eli. The Detweiler Boy. "Best indecent proposition I've had all week."
